Welcome to Acts

This is the most inspiring story ever told. Over a short span for 30 plus years, 12 men with a few helpers, started the most widely known movement in the world. Perhaps Gamaliel says it best in Acts 5:39

But if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God.

Acts not only maps the spread of Christianity, no does it merely describe the challenges and courage of Christ's young Bride, it is also the foremost authority on how to obtain eternal life.

By joining this study it is our prayer that you to are entering an arena of the fiery spread of the Gospel of Jesus.

Some authors of commentaries on Acts you might find useful are:

McGarvey; Ash and Oster's Sweet Commentaries; John Stott; Gareth L. Reese.

My favorite is Coffman Commentaries. It is readily available from: <http://www.searchgodsword.org/com/bcc/>

Summary of the book (most maps are from <http://www.ccel.org>):

Luke, the author of the Gospel of Luke, here presents volume two of his record of Christ's life and ministry. In Acts, the central figures become Christ's apostles who carry His Gospel to all people. Acts is structured around a key verse (1:8) where Christ tells the Apostles to go to Jerusalem and Judea (the Jews' home), Samaria (neighboring countries), and even to the ends of the earth (all Gentile peoples). Saul, the converted Jewish scholar, becomes Paul the missionary evangelist who takes Christ to the Gentiles. Peter leads the effort to continue evangelizing Jews both in Palestine and those dispersed in other countries as well. Acts records the spreading of the Gospel, and the building of the Church, throughout

Europe, and as Rome.
